

Pen Picture of Jesus.

(New York Press)

The following is the only reliable pen picture of Christ as seen in actual life, and is an exquisite piece of word painting. It is taken from a MS., now in possession of Lord Kelly and in his library. It was copied from an original letter of Publius Lentulus at Rome. In being the usual custom of Roman Governors to advise the Senate and the people of such material things as happened in their provinces in the days of Tiberius Caesar, Publius Lentulus, Procurator of Judea, wrote the letter to the Senate:

There appeared in these, our days, a man of great virtue named Jesus Christ, who is yet living amongst us; and of the Gentiles it is accepted as a prophet of truth. He raises the dead and cures all manner of diseases. A man of substance somewhat tall, and comely, such as the beholder may both love and fear.

His hair of the color of a chestnut full ripe, plain to his ears whence downward it is more moist and curling and waving about his shoulders. In the midst of his head is a seam, a partition in the hair, after the manner of Nazarites. His forehead plain and very delicate; his face without a spot or wrinkle, beautiful with a lovely red. His nose and mouth so formed that nothing can be reprehended. His beard in color like his hair, not very long, but forked. His look innocent and mature. His eyes gray, clear and quicke and luminous. In reproving he is terrible; his eyes piercing us with a two-edged sword—the greedy, the selfish and the oppressor, but look with tenderest pity on the weak, the erring and the sinful. Courteous and fair-spoken. Pleasant in conversation, mixed with gravity. It cannot be remembered that any have seen him laugh, but many have seen him weep. In proportion of body most excellent a man for his singular beauty surpassing the children of men.

Wine of Cardui
Cured Her.

210 South Prior Street,

ATLANTA, Ga.—March 21, 1909.

I suffered for four months with extreme nervousness and faintness. I had a sinking feeling in my stomach which no medicine seemed to relieve, and losing my appetite. In three weeks the fainting pains were relieved and I felt well again and quickly relief to regain my health. Having heard Wine of Cardui praised by several of my friends, I sent for a bottle and was certainly very pleased with the results. After three days my appetite returned and my stomach troubled me no more. I could digest my food without difficulty and the nervousness gradually diminished. Nature performed her functions without difficulty and I can once more a happy and well woman.

Interesting And Profitable Was Conference Last Week.

Pastors And Lay Delegates From Seventeen Charges in District Have Four Days' Meeting Here--Prominent Missionary Workers Present--List of Those in Attendance And by Whom They Were Entertained.

CALHOUN IS SELECTED AS PLACE OF NEXT MEETING.

One of the most successful conferences in the history of the Owensboro district, Methodist Episcopal church, South, was held at the Methodist church in this city last week. The attendance and interest of ministers and lay delegates and of citizens was unusually good and the meeting was, no doubt, of great benefit to the visitors as well as the home people. Some very interesting and profitable talks were made by the delegates, both ministerial and lay, and a number of excellent sermons were preached, those at the evening services being heard by especially large audiences. All matters pertaining to the various departments of church work were carefully looked into, valuable ideas were exchanged, and the delegates were filled with new zeal to do better work on returning to their homes. Reports of delegates, pastors and committees showed an encouraging increase in the work being done in some sections. One of the most pleasing features of the conference was the hospitable welcome and entertainment accorded the visitors.

The conference, as stated in the News last week, began on Monday night with preaching by Rev. T. J. Randolph, of Owensboro. The second day was devoted to the Sunday-school conference and the third to the Epworth League conference. Thursday and Friday were the days occupied by the district conference proper.

Of the eighteen charges in the district, all were represented except one, and of these sixteen were represented by the pastor in charge. Besides the pastors and delegates there were visitors from other conferences, missionary workers, and agents of church literature and institutions who lent their helpful presence to the good work.

A list of pastors, delegates and others in attendance at the conference, and the citizens by whom they were entertained, is given, incomplete as could be obtained below.

Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Gregory—Rev. P. C. Duvall, presiding elder of Elizabethtown district, Elizabethtown.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Hoffius—W. P. Stephens, Livermore.

In the outline of the work done by the conference, as given in these columns, a large part of the proceedings is omitted, as it is not considered as being of general interest.

Sunday-School Conference.

The Sunday-school conference, the twenty-second in the history of the district, met at 8:15 Tuesday morning. J. H. Walker was elected secretary and Rev. J. T. Rushing, the presiding elder, was conceded to be the president of the Sunday-school conference. The reports of the pastors and superintendents, were, in brief, as follows:

Lewisport—Two Sunday schools, one evergreen; 191 pupils, eighty church members.

Owensboro Circuit—Four schools, 238 pupils, eighty-one church members; two evergreen, more prosperous than ever before.

Fordsville—Three schools, 195 pupils, fifty-five church members; two evergreen schools reported best school in district at Narrows.

Patesville—S. J. Baker, superintendent, reported school as having done good work.

Hartford Circuit—Two schools, both evergreen, 247 pupils, thirty per cent. church members.

Pleasant Ridge Circuit—Two schools, one evergreen; 100 pupils, twenty-five of whom are church members.

Owensboro—Main street school, 200 pupils, average attendance ninety.

Calhoun Circuit—Three schools, 213 pupils, two evergreen.

Cloverport—One school, 125 pupils.

Yelvington Circuit—Out of 180 pupils in schools, 112 church members.

V. G. Babbage made a report of the Cloverport Sunday-school and made some pointed suggestions on the Sunday-school library.

Rev. Silas Newton reported a Sunday-school at Breckenridge with eighty pupils with an average attendance of sixty.

Rev. W. T. Miller spoke on his topic "Adult Attendance," laying stress on the point that to keep the children in the Sunday-school the parents should bring the children and not send them. A general discussion followed, after which Rev. P. L. King addressed the conference on the subject assigned him, "Quality of Teaching." He took the position that the teachers should have mental and spiritual qualifications and that the superintendent should have the power of appointing them. After a general discussion of this topic, a recess was taken.

When the conference came together again, Rev. Silas Newton presided at the session.

Afternoon Session.

The topic, "How to Keep an Ever-green Sunday-school," was discussed by J. H. Walker.

J. B. Galloway, in discussing the subject assigned him, "Sunday-school Missionary Society," produced law facts and figures to show that, unquestionably, all Sunday schools should be organized into a missionary society.

At this point reports of two circuits were made as follows:

Rome Circuit—Three schools, none evergreen, seventy-five pupils, three-fourths church members.

Sulphur Springs Circuit—Seven schools, 355 pupils, 200 church members.

A. D. Leitchfield, secretary and treasurer of the Louieville conference Sunday-school board, made an earnest appeal for the importance of the Sunday school.

E. S. Bowes, agent of the Methodist Orphan's Home, addressed the conference on the work done by this institution, after which a collection of $16 for the Orphan's Home was taken.

Miss Nannie B. Gaines, a missionary from Illinois, Japan, addressed the conference, telling of the great work being done there and of the urgent need of funds to carry it on. A free will offering of $6.64 for this work was taken.

Evening Session.

The report of pastors was resumed as follows:

Owensboro, Main Street—One school, 175 pupils.

Woodlawn—One school, eighty pupils, sixty, average, twenty-five church members.

Livermore—Three Methodist schools, one union; 155 pupils, seventy-five per cent. church members.

Rev. P. C. Duvall, presiding elder of the Elizabethtown district, preached the sermon at the evening session, his subject being "The goodness we should manifest to our fellowmen."

Epworth League Conference.

The Epworth League conference met Wednesday morning. Rev. J. T. Rushing was made chairman and W. P. Gordon was elected secretary.

Rev. Currie, of Owensboro, reported that he had one active Senior League with a charter to the Junior, which has dissolved into the Junior Missionary Society.

Rev. Gordon reported that Woodlawn had three leagues in good working order.

Rev. Walker, of Lewisport, reported that his league had been resurrected after ten or fifteen years of dormancy, and that it is now doing good work.

Rev. Randolph reported that he had organized several leagues but because of lack of leadership they had not done good work.

Rev. Galloway, of Fordsville, reported no league and thinks it not practical to organize.

Rev. Baker, of Sulphur Springs circuit, reported no leagues but thinks he can organize two or more.

Rev. Miller reported a number of good leagues.

W. C. Moorman reported conditions to be such that no league can be organized on Pleasant Ridge circuit.

R. H. Roe reported good league at Ramsey.

Rev. Reid, of Livermore, reported very good league.

No prospect for league in Rome circuit.

Rev. King reported a good league for Cloverport. He believes to be a great help to him in securing his conference collections.

"How to Interest Our Young Men in League Work," was ably discussed by Prof. F. S. Foskett.

Rev. King addressed the conference on the subject, "Are There Defects in the League Organization?" and M. H. Newton, of Owensboro, the subject, "Reading Course."

Dr. P. H. Whistler addressed the conference on the subject of "Church Extension and Rev. Foskett, of the Board of Missions," gave a splendid address on missions.

Afternoon Session.

Rev. Boggs reported three Senior Leagues on the Beaver Dam circuit; Rev. Thomas gave a report of two leagues at Settle Chapel, Owensboro and Rev. Randolph stated there were from thirty to thirty-five members in his league.

After a number of talks on missionary literature and the circulating library, a committee to plan a missionary campaign in the Owensboro district, was on suggestion, appointed. The committee announced by the chairman was as follows: F. M. Thomas, R. H. Roe, M. H. Miller.

An interesting report of the Women's Home Missionary Society for the district was read by the conference secretary, Mrs. J. L. Basham, of Owensboro, who addressed the conference on the W. H. Miller.

Mrs. V. G. Babbage presented the cause of the Woman's Foreign Missionary Society.

A number of other talks on different phases of the missionary work were followed by an earnest and helpful sermon by Rev. W. T. Miller.

At the evening session Rev. Thomas preached an excellent sermon, which was heard by a large congregation.

District Conference.

The district conference proper convened Thursday morning at 8:15. Rev. J. T. Rushing was continued as chairman and Rev. B. M. Currie was elected secretary.

A. D. Leitchfield, secretary and treasurer of the Louieville conference Sunday-school board, made an earnest appeal for the importance of the Sunday school.

E. S. Bowes, agent of the Methodist Orphan's Home, addressed the conference on the work done by this institution, after which a collection of $16 for the Orphan's Home was taken.

Miss Nannie B. Gaines, a missionary from Illinois, Japan, addressed the conference, telling of the great work being done there and of the urgent need of funds to carry it on. A free will offering of $6.64 for this work was taken.

Evening Session.

The report of pastors was resumed as follows:

Owensboro, Main Street—One school, 175 pupils.

Woodlawn—One school, eighty pupils, sixty, average, twenty-five church members.

Livermore—Three Methodist schools, one union; 155 pupils, seventy-five per cent. church members.

Rev. Currie, of Owensboro, reported that he had one active Senior League with a charter to the Junior, which has dissolved into the Junior Missionary Society.

Rev. P. C. Duvall, presiding elder of the Elizabethtown district, preached the sermon at the evening session, his subject being "The goodness we should manifest to our fellowmen."

Afternoon Session.

The afternoon session was occupied by the reports of pastors and other routine business, and a number of able addresses. The speakers and their topics were as follows: Rev. Randolph, "The Pastor and the Collections"; Rev. E. R. Bennett, "When and Where Should the Missionary Campaign be Conducted?"; Rev. E. D. Boggs, "How May We Reach Each Member in Taking the Collections?"; Rev. J. F. Baker, "How to Secure the Best Attendance at the Prayer Meeting"; Rev. B. F. Lawhern, "What Constitutes Pastoral Visitation."

Evening Session.

The features of the evening session, and among the most important and interesting of the conference, were the address on missions by Dr. Lambuth and the starting of the "Joiner" fund. Dr. Lambuth's address was one of the most entertaining and instructive lectures ever heard in this city on the subject of missions. He told especially of the work that is being done in Brazil by Rev. E. Joiner and his wife, who were sent from this district, and made a plea for funds to help them in their work.

At the close of his address $177 was pledged by pastors personally and for their churches and by others present to start a "Joiner" fund.

Dr. Lambuth knows more, perhaps, about missions than any other man in America. He was born in China, is the son of the man who founded the Methodist church in China, is general secretary of the board of missions of the Methodist church, and has traveled all over the world doing missionary work. The people of this city may congratulate themselves on having the pleasure of this man's presence.

Second Day District Conference.

The district conference proper reconvened Friday morning at 8:15. Rev. Rushing was continued as chairman and Rev. Currie as secretary.

S. W. Bennett, of Livermore, was elected lay delegate to the annual conference and S. J. Baker, of Patesville, and W. W. Rawson, of Central City, alternates.

One of the greatest blessings a modest man can wish for is a good, reliable set of bowels. If you are not the happy possessor of such an outfit you can greatly improve the efficiency of those you have by judicious use of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets. They are pleasant to take and agreeable in effect. For sale by Short & Hayes.

Calhoun was nominated and elected the place for holding the next district conference.

Judge L. P. Little offered a resolution of thanks, which was adopted. The resolution was as follows:

Resolved by this conference that the thanks of its members, both lay and clerical, be tendered to the people of Cloverport for their hospitality to us during this conference.

The reports of the committees on missions, temperance, spiritual state of church and other departments, which were appointed Thursday, were read and adopted.

Rev. W. C. Moorman spoke on the subject assigned "Our Church Literature."

Dr. B. F. Atkins, president of Logan Female College, presented the claims of the school under his care.

Afternoon Session.

The afternoon session was devoted mainly to reports of pastors, the renewing of licenses and other routine business.

Evening Session.

At the evening session Rev. W. P. Gordon, of Owensboro, preached the closing sermon of the conference.

District Superintendent Bruner, of the Kentucky Children's Home Society, made a short talk concerning the work and needs of the institution.

Presiding Elder Rushing made some very pleasant remarks about the hospitable manner in which the visiting brethren had been entertained and then the conference adjourned.

READ THIS.

Brownsville, Tenn., May 31, 1901.
Dear Sirs—Dear Dear Sirs—I have and your God Directs for kidney and bladder troubles and have been very greatly benefited by it and I can fully recommend it to any one suffering in the same manner. Respectfully, Giles Rivers, Postmaster.

K. C. H. S. Doing Great Work.

Rev. I. W. Bruner, district superintendent of the Kentucky Children's Home Society, was in the city last week, on his fourth annual visit here in the interest of the Society. He reports that the Society is placing more destitute children in homes and that more money is being contributed for its support than ever before in its history. His collections in March and April, he says, were larger than those of any other two months since he has been district superintendent. The $15,000 appropriated by the Legislature for the use of the Society has helped it wonderfully, he says.

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy Best.

"I have been using Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and want to say it is the best cough medicine I have ever taken," says Geo. L. Chubb, a merchant of Harlan, Mich. There is no question about its being the best, as it will cure a cough or cold in less time than any other treatment. It should always be kept in the house ready for instant use, for a cold, can be cured in much less time when promptly treated. For sale by Short & Hayes.

Public School Picnic.

The public school picnic was held at Oglesby's woods last Friday instead of Thursday, it being postponed a day on account of the rain. The picnic marked the closing of school for the 1904-1905 session.

One of the greatest blessings a modest man can wish for is a good, reliable set of bowels. If you are not the happy possessor of such an outfit you can greatly improve the efficiency of those you have by judicious use of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets. First Important Official Act.

GUS D. SHELLMAN.

Mr. Shellman was elected, on May 8, chairman of the county committee of the Republican party. His call for a county mass convention at Hardinsburg, Monday, June 3, for the purpose of selecting delegates to the senatorial district convention on June 5, when a candidate for State Senator will be nominated, was his first official act of importance. The district convention also was called by Mr. Shellman, as chairman of the Tenth senatorial district.

Strictly Genuine.

Most of the patent medicine testimonials are probably genuine. The following notice recently appeared in the Atchison (Kan.) Globe: "Joe Tack, a well known engineer, running on the Missouri Pacific between Wichita and El Reno, lately appeared in a big one, with a picture, and when he was in this office to-day, we asked him about it. He says he had terrible pains in his stomach, and thought he had a cancer. His druggist recommended Kodol and he says it cured him. He recommended it to others, who were also cured." Kodol Dyspepsia Cure digests what you eat and cures all stomach troubles. Just as surely as the sun shines your stomach can be brought back to its original purity condition and life sweetened by this lasting and truly the greatest digestive known. Sold by all Drugists.

To Perfect School System.

Frankfort, Ky., May 24.—A meeting of the leading educators of Kentucky, presided over by State Superintendent Faquin and in which Governor Beecham, President Patterson, of Kentucky state college; President Jenkins, of Kentucky university, and Dr. Blayney, of Central university, participated, is determined to effect a permanent state and county organization to labor to perfect the common school system of Kentucky. This organization will be effected at the meeting at Mammoth cave on June 22 next. Many changes in and amendments to the present school laws of Kentucky will be urged at the coming session of the general assembly.

Saved By Dynamite.

Sometimes a flaming city is saved by dynamiting a space that the fire can't cross. Sometimes, a cough hangs on so long, you feel as if nothing but dynamite would cure it. Z. T. Gray, of Calhoun, Ga., writes: "My wife had a very bad cough, which kept her awake at night. Two physicians could not help her, so she took Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Congis and Colds, which eased her cough, gave her sleep, and finally cured her." Strictly scientific cure for bronchitis and La Grippe. At Short & Haynes drug store, price 50c and $1.00; guaranteed. Trial bottle free.

Vote to Reunite.

Amid a storm of applause, without debate or a dissenting voice, the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church last week, at Winona Lake, Ind., voted to reunite with the Cumberland Presbyterian body, which withdrew from the original denomination February 4, 1810, thereby, in effect, bringing together the two largest branches of the Presbyterian faith.

WON FROM DISASTER

SUCCESS AT TIMES FOLLOWS SEEMING ILLOGIC.

How the Indian Petroleum Deposits Were Discovered—A Dying Seed Disclosed Game Name's Gold Secret. The Origin of Tinted Paper.

The Baku petroleum deposits, which have yielded millions of pounds of fine oil, are situated in Russian Caucasus.

Years ago a number of cattle were placed on several tracts of land well covered with herbage. The animals, however, refused to feed at first, but later, in their hunger, they ate up the grass ravenously. All of them were taken ill, and a number died.

The cause of their death puzzled the owner for some time. In the long run he discovered, with the assistance of an Englishman, that below the meadows were very rich springs which caused the grass to be poisoned with parathion. The loss of the cattle became a fortune.

A number of the cattle became sick on the Steppes, and were lying down during a strong gale, and when the tide rose many acres of low lying land were flooded by the sea. The farmers who rented the land were in despair, and in order to save their crops they started draining the water off.

Two days later the water stopped suddenly and was a small wonder to behold. They were one thick carpet of fine mackerel. A big school of the fish had swum in through the breach in the embankment and been carried to the sheep.

The farmers hired scores of carts to carry the fish to market, and within twenty-four hours the fish had been packed into boxes and were en route to Billingsgate, where they were sold for over $400.

Starving, ill clad and bootless, Robert Hyams, a homeless Jew, wandered to the door of a lonely hill in the mountains of the Andes. He had been blown away from the coast, and to protect himself from the cold blast he entered a big shed of wood and grass on the summit which was used to store fodder for the sheep.

Stepping through the door, he was astounded to find inside over sixty wild ducks, half stunned, but quacking violently. He slammed the door to and started catching the birds and wringing their necks.

The shed lay right in the flight lines of the condors, and the ducks were shot from the mouth of the bird, flying low in their hundreds, some of them had entered the door of the shed, which had been left open by the shepherds, and stunned themselves on the raw wall.

Hyams sold the picky haul for a sum exceeding $50, and with this he was able to clothe himself respectably and thus end his adventure.

On the beach which fringes the precipices below Cape Nome there is now a prosperous city peopled by 40,000 miners, but at one time, and not very long ago, it was uninhabited. The discovery of the gold in the district and its ultimate prosperity was entirely due to a seal.

Two American hunters had wounded the strange creature, and it led them a pretty dance across the ice and into an unknown bay, where the seal was killed after badly wounding one of the world.

In its death struggles the seal lunged up the ground, and the hunters, to their agreeable surprise, found themselves on a golden strand—the rich end one is the world.

The death of a mule brought great wealth to Frederick Butler, a Klondike, who took part in the memorable "rush" to the gold fields of Yukon. He left his mule standing one day on a plot of land far away from the "claims," and another miner who had a grudge against his fellow digger shot the animal in the neck with his rifle.

The mule fell and in its agony kicked up the ground with its hoofs. When its owner returned he found several "pebbles" of strange weight and shape lying around the dead animal. He picked up these stones and they proved to be nuggets of virgin gold.

The dying mule had struck one of the richest veins in Klondike.

A similar case of gold being discovered by an animal occurred in Scotland in 1808. A dog, badly wounded by a bear, went home to his master, who had a mine near gold on ground which was afterward known as the Dunrobin gold mines, near Golspie. Over $20,000 worth of the precious metal was washed out of the mine by the owner of the fortune bringing dog.

The Patent Silver mine in Spain was accidentally discovered by a wounded dog, and it is said that the famous diamond mines at Kimberley were first revealed to a wide awake Boer by a sow which had shot.

Gold to the value of some hundreds of pounds was dug out of a portion of the ground belonging to the Duke of western Cumberland. A fowl chased by a boy threw up a nugget of gold with its claws as it fled from its pursuer.

Subsequently it transpired that where the bird had been was a dried up stream, and contained sand and small nuggets in large quantities.

Ramsgate harbor was once flooded with a mighty shoal of mullet, and when the dock gates were opened to allow a ship to pass into the inner basin the fish followed, and the basin became thick with them.

When the tide went down the authority had the dock sluices opened and the water drained off. Over twenty cart loads of mullet of two pounds weight and upward were taken away from the floor of the basin, and their sale brought to the coffers of the Ramsgate council nearly £500.

A piece of blue dropped by accident into a vat of pulp was responsible for the production of blue tinted paper, and thus this slight disaster the foundation of a great industry is to be traced.

The wife of William East, a paper maker, dropped a blue bag into one of her husband's pulp vats, and as it remained the pulp turned blue.

East considered this paper to be a grave pecuniary loss, but when he sent it up to London it found a ready market. Indeed, it became so popular that East was asked to supply more. He did and eventually made a great fortune out of his "blue bag" paper.

East's success was inspiring when he got some aquafirous from a bottle when a few drops fell upon a pair of gold rimmed spectacles, which he had recently purchased.

"That's a catastrophe," he called to his wife. "I've upset some aquafirous on my new spectacles."

"Well, what's the damage?" was the reply.

"Not much," said the chorister, "the glass is where the fluid touched it."

Then an idea struck him, and getting a piece of window glass, he endeavored to set it thereon. He succeeded after many failures. By drawing designs on the glass he made his first aquafirous aquafirous he made them appear as on a gray background. For many years he kept his secret close and made a small fortune out of his designed glass.

THE PRICE OF TORTURE.

EIGHTEEN CENTURY PUNISHMENTS and the Costs Thereof.

Among the monuments of superstition which exist to this day, the traveler sees the "witch towers," the torture chambers and the collections of instruments of torture in the towns of almost every nationality at Nuremberg, Battissau, Munich and the Hague. But perhaps nothing brings the system more vividly before us than the executioner's tariffs still preserved. Four of these may be seen in the library of Cornell university and among them exhibits of the same period as the architectural sector of Cologne in 1757. On four printed folio pages, it enumerates in fifty-five paragraphs every sort of hideous cruelty which an executioner could commit upon a prisoner, with the sum allowed him for each, and for the instruments therein required. Typical examples from this tariff are the following:

	Thalers. U.S.
1. For tearing asunder with four horses.....	5 25
2. For breaking with a horse.....	25
3. For beheading and burning.....	5
4. For strangling and burning.....	4

A Hanging Bridge.

When the River and Rio Grande prepared to hold their trials, the Indian engineers said the canyon of the Arkansas could never be penetrated its entire length. There was one spot in this awe inspiring chasm where there was not room for a roadbed on either side of the stream. The walls of the canyon could not be cut to give sufficient room for a bridge without a bridge on one side. But an engineer suggested a hanging bridge suspended between the walls of the canyon. The bridge was built with supports embedded in the solid rock, and across it heavy transcontinental trains fit daily. The nothing but a narrow bridge-work between the river and the top of the canyon, 2,000 feet above, Great iron bridges, which look almost spider-like in the vastness of the canyon, have been thrown across the gap, being anchored securely in the solid rock. These cables depend from these braces, holding a long iron bridge, which extends across but parallel with the course of the river.—New York Tribune.

The City of Is.

You might exhaust yourself looking in atlas and gazetteer for a city of Is, because it is purely legendary. Here is a brief statement of the legend: "The magnificent city of Is was situated on the coast of Britany where now is the bay of Douarnenez. It was built by the King Gradlon and was surrounded by massive walls. Here in the fifth century was the court of the pious King Gradlon and of his wicked daughter, Dahut, who had a pleasant habit of throwing her suitors into a well when their society became tiresome to her. One of her favorite suitors asked her to obtain for him a silver key which fastened the sluice gates in the city wall. Dahut accordingly stole the key from her father's neck while he slept, the lover unlocked the gates and the sea rushed in and overwhelmed the city and its inhabitants, including the King. Only the King's son, Prince Gradlon, survived. The poor prince says that the spirits of the drowned still haunt the spot, and the bells of the submerged city are often heard ringing at low tide."

—The Times.

Subsequently it transpired that where the city had been was a dried up stream, and contained sand and small nuggets in large quantities.

Ramsgate harbor was once flooded with a mighty shoal of mullet, and when the dock gates were opened to allow a ship to pass into the inner basin the fish followed, and the basin became thick with them.

THOUGHTS.

"We can afford to differ on party lines, on the money question and on other questions; but there ought to be no question about a man's honesty who occupies a great public office." —President Roosevelt.

If a farmer says he is going to cut his crop twenty-five per cent, he should do it. Do what you say you'll do. It pays.

California has a law punishing by fine or imprisonment any one who "listens in" on a telephone line. Pretty good law! But how about catching 'em?

The farmers organizations in Breckinridge county are standing by their guns, pooling their tobacco and reducing the crop. They were a little slow to move in this work, but they moved. And now that they are in, they are standing by it. It's the only way to succeed. Stand by your organization and your work.

Prof. King and board of school trustees certainly deserve the thanks of all lovers of good schools and education for the splendid entertainment given in this town Monday night. Prof. Aley's splendid address was the right thing and in the right place. It gave this community an uplift along educational lines. It has never had before. It was good for the old as well as for the young.

Baron Alphonse Rothschild, who died in Paris, France, last Sunday, laid down the following rules as to habit and conduct and advised every young man who was ambitious and desirous to be a success in business to follow them. They are as follows:

Sixty-four rules:
1. Dare to go forward.
2. Never be disengaged.
3. Be a mate to everybody.
4. Employ yourself well.
5. Never tell business lies.
6. Pay your debts promptly.
7. Be prompt in everything.
8. Bear a troubled patient.
9. Do not reckon upon chances.
10. Make no useless acquaintances.
11. Be brave in the struggle of life.
12. Maintain your integrity as a sacred thing.
13. Never appear to be something more than you are.
14. Take time to consider; then act positively.
15. Carefully examine every detail of your business.

Lovers of nature and the animal world are going to find no article in the June magazines so much to their liking and profit as John Burroughs' essay in the Cosmopolitan, "A Beaver's Reason." Mr. Burroughs explains most clearly and fully the difference between animal and human intelligence, which is a matter on which everybody would like to be informed.

NOT HOW MUCH, BUT HOW?

Wa. Street Journal.

We shall resist the temptation to enter into the discussion of the much-discussed question of tainted money. We do not propose to express an opinion as to whether this church or that college should accept the philanthropy of John D. Rockefeller or not. We are inclined to think that there is more or less hushing in much of the outcry against tainted money. But the raising of the question should have a wholesome effect.

It is a good thing to have the attention of the country directed to the ethical side of wealth, to the methods employed in acquiring it, and to the effect of these methods upon the well-being of the people. It is a good thing to have a point of conscience raised as to the right of a man to give away money which he has wrongfully obtained, and to the right of an individual or institution to receive stolen or fraudulent wealth. For in answering the question whether our churches or institutions of learning shall become "fences," the receivers of stolen goods, brings vividly to the minds and consciences of the people the fact that the only wealth worth having is that wealth which is the product of honest industry. And when men who have acquired great wealth by dishonest practices and selfish methods find that they cannot even give away their money, and that their riches bear the stamp of public odium, there will be less eagerness to get rich quickly by ways that do not square with sound principle.

In this country we are accustomed to ask not what a man is, but what he does; not who were his ancestors, but what he has himself achieved. Let us carry this a little further, and get into the habit of inquiring not how much a man is worth, but how he has acquired his money. Then there will be a more wholesome public opinion on the subject of wealth.

BISHOP WOODCOCK'S SUCCESS.

(From the Louisville Herald)

When Bishop Woodcock came to Kentucky it was predicted that he would be a power for good in this State, a pillar for his church, a joy to all the people. His initial sermon discovered a man of profound spirituality, broad humanity, highest culture and unerring knowledge of human wants. Every appearance of the Bishop since that time has justified early predictions, first impressions and friendly expectations. He is a great churchman and a veritable leader of men, whether they happen to be of his church or not. He has been making a tour of the diocese outside the city of Louisville, meeting with hearty receptions everywhere. Churches of all denominations are thrown open to him. People of every faith and of no church affiliation crowd to hear him. The Breckinridge News says of the Bishop's recent visit to Cloverport:

Bishop Charles E. Woodcock, Episcopal Bishop of Kentucky, preached at the M. E. church, South, Friday morning, assisted by Archdeacon M. M. Benton, of Louisville. The fine sermon delivered by this scholarly divine was enjoyed by an audience composed partly of a large per cent, of the Episcopalians of the city, a number of whom took communion.

How gratifying to have a gifted church leader going about doing good, not offending the sensibilities of anyone, and making all men have the essentials of Christian life. Bishop Woodcock is determined to spare no effort to spread his own belief and ritual, but will clash with no other system. There is enough room for his work in this state. Its success will injure no other denominational work. The weak, inert church is everywhere a stumbling block to religious progress. The vital church organization imparts vigor to all such combined efforts for human betterment. Bishop Woodcock is an accession to Kentucky's high-class citizenship which this state must cordially prize.

Tobinport Loses: Ponies Win.

In a game of baseball at Troy Sunday the club of that place won over the Tobinport nine by a score of 12 to 11.

The Anchors of Evansville, and the Ponies of Cannelton, played at Cannelton Sunday, the game resulting in a score of 5 to 0 in favor of Cannelton.

Death of Hiram Phelps.

Hartlinsburg, Ky., May 30.—(Special)—J. H. Lemmon, Mrs. John D. Belder and Miss Louise Belder went to Louisville Friday, to attend the funeral of Hiram Phelps, who died suddenly of heart disease. Mr. Phelps, several years ago, married Miss Nettie Lommon, of this place, who is surviving as with one child.

Incompetent Surgeon.

In one of the most fashionable restaurants in Paris a man's life was saved through the skill and quickness of one of the guests. It appears that a man with three friends, was dining at one of the tables, when a piece of meat lodged in his throat and made it impossible to get rid of it. His friends in alarm slapped him on the back, but the unfortunate man became black in the face and fell to the floor. A surgeon from the German hospital, who happened to be passing by the cafe, pushed his way through the crowd. He saw at once that the man was dying and that if prompt measures were not taken he would quickly succumb. He ordered one of the waiters to bring him a sharp knife and then, as a last resort, thrust it into the man's mouth. After a moment's hesitation, he took out a sharp knife, cut the man's throat, removed the piece of meat and inserted the funnel into the man's mouth. The man, who had been barely conscious, then hastily conveyed to the hospital, where a silver tube was inserted in the place of the funnel, and a few hours later he was pronounced out of danger.

The Wisdom of Scrooges.

The wisdom of Scrooges, millionaire estate-driver from John Ur. Lloyd's novel, "Scrooges."

"Et don't make no difference, Mr. Mayor, how rich and ignorant a man is—if he only has a 'nose'—he's bound to be after getting rich. I mean he tries to quit work an' only thinks by lookin' at things with his eyes an' thinkin' with his nose. I mean he's stuckin' his one stomach like it was a hog-head by air a fool. I've got my eye on him, and I'm goin' back for the goods."

"But, my good man, you are old. Your place is filled by some other man. Perhaps you can't get it back."

"Pardner," said Scrooges, "there ain't a question 'bout gittin' gittha place. See? Ma'am, I own the line. When I picks up them ribbons that won't be no agent to say, 'Tut 'em down, Scrooges.'"

The Faculties of Success.

Bright, cheerful hopeful thoughts and a strong belief in one's own ability to accomplish the thing undertaken are friends that will insure success.

The ambitious person should learn as early in life as possible to put out the friendliest example of success.

In many cases it will be found that the greatest enemy resides within himself.

Morbid thoughts, for example, are indefinitely greater hindrances to success than opposition from outside, and no brighter example of success can be given than that of the man who succeeds in the atmosphere of abnormal melancholy or morbid ideas.

Overcome the enemies to success within yourself and you will have done much toward reaching the goal of your ambition.—London Answers.

Peculiar

To Itself

In what it is and what it does—containing the best blood-purifying, alterative and tonic substances and effecting the most radical and permanent cures of all humors and all eruptions, relieving weak, tired, languid feelings, and building up the whole system—is true only of Hood's Sarsaparilla.

No other medicine acts like it; no other medicine has done so much real, substantial good, nor other medicine has restored health and strength as only cost.

"I was stricken with sarsaparilla and came near losing my life, but for two months I could not see to do anything. After taking two bottles of Hood's Sarsaparilla I could see to walk, and when I had taken eight bottles I could walk and run over." Sonza A. Haze, Woburn, N. G.

Recitals at Hardinsburg.

Hardinsburg, Ky., May 30.—(Special)—Decoration Day services will be held at Hardinsburg Sunday, people attending from many sections.

A Peculiar Animal.

Recitals at Hardinsburg Sunday, characteristics of that strange link between birds and beasts, the duck-billed platypus of Australia, a writer says: "It makes its home like an otter in a bank, tunneling up from the entrance under water, sometimes thirty or forty feet, which it leaves to frequent mud banks to make nothing of, to a place where it can find a dry and well-drained hollow. Its food consists chiefly of insects, crayfish or 'yabbies' which it holds, hard shell and all. It will stay in the water for hours, and at times, under water, searching the mud and stones for these delicacies with its duck-like bill. It makes a most fascinating little pet, becoming very tame and squirming with delight when fed. It is a creature of great intelligence, though if care is not taken it will overturn itself, seeming to have in captivity difficulty in digesting the hard crayfish shells. Its coat is like the mole's, of an unusually silken and glossy texture."

The Longest Day.

June 21 is the longest day of the year, the day when the sun reaches its northern limit, the tropic of Cancer. At points on the border of the northern hemisphere, many tourists go long distances to witness the sight. It is singular how accurately the semi-barbarous nations were able to observe and reckon. On Salisbury plain, in England, there is a stone circle, which is a broad slab so placed that the rays of the rising sun strike it until it only on the 21st of June. The old man who shows the place to visitors tells the story that a young girl once said to him, "I suppose you have seen it hundred of times, haven't you?"

Wouldn't Be Recalled.

Two of the most eminent lawyers at the Philadelphia bar were Benjamin Harris Brewster and his half brother, Frederick Carroll Brewster. Both had held the office of attorney general for the state, and both were members of the congressional delegation of the United States. They had not been on friendly terms for many years. It is said that on one occasion a mutual friend tried to bring them together, and finally Frederick C. presented his brother the bill and sent Benjamin H. a card containing his name, with these words written underneath, "At home on Monday evening, May 1." By the same messenger Benjamin H. sent a card in return, which read, "Benjamin H. Brewster also at home Monday evening, May 1." This ended negotiations.

Unimportant Man.

Many a man goes away from home for a week and imagines that he is the only man in the whole community, and when he comes home he finds that there isn't a person in town that knew he had been away.

Young Plants

Every farmer knows that some plants grow better than others. Soil may be the same and seed may seem the same but some plants are weak and others strong.

And that's the way with children. They are like young plants. Same food, same home, same care but some grow big and strong while others stay small and weak.

Scott's Emulsion offers an easy way out of the difficulty. Child weakness often means starvation, not because of lack of food, but because the food does not feed.

Scott's Emulsion really feeds and gives the child growing strength.

Whatever the cause of weak ness and failure to grow—Scott's Emulsion seems to find it and set the matter right.

Miss Gaines' Great Work.

Miss Nannie B. Gaines, the missionary from Hishimura, Japan, who addressed the conference here last week, telling of the work done in that country, has accomplished as much, perhaps, as any woman missionary in the foreign field. The success of the largest Christian school for girls in Japan is largely due to her efforts. This school now has 100 pupils and its influence is felt in a wide district. When Miss Gaines took charge it was a very small school.

Bilbao Hall was entirely blotted. And his tongue was uncoated. Patent time wouldn't cure him. Gentlemen would not insure him. All his friends were badly frightened.

But their spirits soon were lightened.

EARLY RISER pills relieved him. The famous Little Pills "EARLY RISERS" cure Constipation, Sick Headache, Biliousness, etc., by their effect on the liver. They never gripe or sicken, but impart early rising energy. Good for children or adults. Sold by All Druggists.

The Old Time Parlor.

The days of the parlor are gone. There are none in every home, no matter how poor, had its parlor. And generally the parlor was a most useless place, but it was the pride of the honest few. The Observant Citizen remembers some time ago the lady of the house received a call to inspect the old parlor. Her husband smiled coolly, and they both led the way to a big front room which was dark. The door was unlocked, and the parlor got a first fresh air in quite a while. It was a fine room, all in rosewood, on the parlor. Every thing was new but the sunlit birds under glass cases. The design of the carpet was wonderful in that it consisted of bright red roses, all full like stamping in the center of them. A homely old chair was the first, the most ornate article of furniture, while at the windows were two festoon curtains, one over each window.

"Monstros!" replied Rachel. "France is not rich enough to treat all her princesses with such taste."

The Old Time Parlor. A Frenchwoman, Mrs. Pinkham, the celebrated French tragedienne, was in St. Petersburg. Just before leaving the Russian capital some of the officials of the city gave a banquet in honor of the actress. A number of the men of the Russian Guard, a notoriety of high rank, said to Rachel in a bantering sort of way,

"We will not bid you 'goodby'; but merely 'au revoir' for we will see you in Paris to drink your health in spirit."

"Monstros!" replied Rachel. "France is not rich enough to treat all her princesses with such taste."

The Old Time Parlor. "My mistake is bound," said the tourist. "I was surprised when I awoke in the morning to find how small my fire was."

"By Jove! I said, 'how slow my beard grows yesterday.' I hardly need to shave today."

It is however, a rather common reason why we shave every morning, so I hate the native scruff, a man provided by my best, to fetch me shaving things. The native shaved.

"But you are already shaved, sir; he said."

"I already shaved," said I.

"Yes, sir," he answered. "I shaved you while you slept. That is the custom here."

"I found that he was right. I found that in the morning, a native shave, was a better shave, even though I had shaved myself the night before. So I hate the native scruff, a man provided by my best, to fetch me shaving things. The native shaved."

"All through my stay in India I was shaved like that. It was almost enough to keep me in that hot and torrid country forever."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

A Bottomless Pit.

There is a bottomless pit in the mountains of Hindostan, back of Kailma, in the Hindu Kush Mountains. It is about forty feet in diameter, and is bottomless, probably from the fact that it sinks in the air with remarkable force. Piles of paper placed over the mouth do not float gently down, but are suddenly drawn in and disappear with startling rapidity. The air is filled with a peculiar, distinct, felt by people standing on the edge. Strange sounds are heard also. Every night the inhabitants of the locality distinctly hear a noise similar to the blowing of a deep steamship whistle. The noise is heard for about five seconds and then subsides for a space of about ten minutes and then resumes for another five seconds.

Address in Persian.

The address in Persian upon letters which ring the post office at Guntur are often quaint and puzzling. An Indian paper recently translated one as follows: "If the Almighty pleases—Let this envelope, having arrived at the city of Calcutta, in the neighborhood of Sibpur, be sent to the company house of Sirajul-din and Habibullah, merchants, to be offered and read by the happy light of my eyes, of virtuous manners and behavior of the heart—Meen Shahul Inayu Ally, may his life be long. Written on the tenth of the blessed Month of Shahrab, in the year 1260 of the Hegira of our Prophet, and dispensed at Beirung."

Preaches at Colored Church.

Rev. E. M. Boggess, of Beaver Dam, preached at the Ashbury Methodist church last Wednesday evening. Rev. Boggess attended the conference and was appointed to preach for the colored people by Presiding Elder J. T. Rushing, on the request of Rev. P. L. King.

Rev. W. H. Pope, pastor of Asbury M. E. church, was introduced to the conference Thursday.

Conversing Reading.

Of course reading may become a mere indulgence and dissipation, a habit to be corrected; also it is very evident that the greater number of us have been born with little reading, or much reading—much reading of men, of opinions, of events, rather than of the printed page. Men like Cromwell and Lincoln and others who have changed the world have been born with little or no nurture. We could even point to a very great and effective modern scientist genius who, with an apparent aversion to scientific literature, gets his learning not so much from books as from experience and from the "teetotal quest" system intelligently applied to friendly experts.—Cecturey.

Valentines Volunteers.

Engines of the frequent accidents in the Government forces at Port au Prince made a requisition on the authorities at Cape Haitian for men to aid in putting down the uprising.

After a somewhat rough experience of two or three days, and without getting the required number of men, the men loaded them aboard ship. Then the following message was sent:

Commander Government Forces, Port au Prince.

Send you per steamer Saginaw today 100 volunteers. Please return those whom they are bound.

The Snow Line.

Snow, even in the tropics, never melts, but remains continuously at the year round above the height of 14,000 feet. In cold climates the snow line is much lower than this.

There will be mistakes in density while men peddle error in ignorance while men govern.—Cartier

Carpenter's Strakes to Drive a Nail.
How many hammer strokes does a carpenter use in driving a nail?

Perhaps not one carpenter in a thousand or one layman has ten times that number can tell or even think of it. The carpenter who has been a carpenter takes seven strokes in driving a nail into ordinary wood and twelve regular strokes and two finishing taps in driving nails into hard wood.

These figures are furnished by a man who works at night and sleeps—or tries to sleep—by day and whose bedrock is the constant pressure of a continual in course of erection. He figured the average number of hammer strokes for nine mornings and having learned them, moved to a hotel until the new building is completed.

He discovered that the carpenter drives an average of three strokes a minute in soft wood and twice as many in hard wood. At this rate he would drive 1,440 nails a day in soft wood if he keeps up the gait steadily and 1,282 in hard wood. He would give 10,000 hammer strokes in soft wood and 20,100 in hard wood.—Chicago Tribune.

Popular Names Abroad.

Numerous as are the members of the Smith family, they do not occupy a prominent place in European directories as they do in those of England or at home, though they take up much room in the "Who's Who" of Europe. 5000 Schmidt's names registered. They have to give room, however, to the Schultzes and Müllers. In Brussels the Jansen family is the most numerous represented, while the greater space in the Paris directory is given over to the Martines.

Morrell and Vitelli are the names most numerous in Naples, and here the Smiths sink into insignificance; but, like the word "hello," the name of Smith is heard around the world and is represented in practically every directory published, more than may be said of any other surname, whatever its nationality.

England's Bound Tree.

The heart of England is a sturdy member that throbs responsive to every call of duty. That, indeed, is not common to England, but is a heritage of every land where the love of country is dearer than life itself. But the real heart of England—the exact geographical center—is altogether another proposition. So far from being occupied by patriotic sentiment, a tree exactly fills the space. It is called Round Tree and is both a pictureque and distinguished growth. Cold stone might mark the spot, but the tree is a living monument to the fact that the snow melts much more fitting. This ancient oak typifies the national strength, and the associations attached to it thickly as leaves in midsummer make it a thing of affection and veneration.

Fable Dice.

The following passage explains the various methods of cheating at dice in the Elizabethan era so well that I transcribe it in full for the benefit of commentators on old plays, etc., says a correspondent of London Notes and Queries. "What false dice use they? as dice stopped up with quicksilver, and heads dice of silver, feathers, and such like, to change when they lyte, to lette the trew dice fall under the table, and so take up the fale, and if they be true dice, what shifte will they make to set ye one of them with slyding, with cogging, with foysting, with coytling, as they call it?"—"Ascham's 'Toxophilus,' 1545."

Many people are afraid of ghosts. Few people are afraid of germs. Yet the ghost is a fancy and the germ is a fact. The ghost could be magnified to a size equal to its terrors it would be a poor, more terrible thing than a breathing dragon. Germs can't be avoided. They are in the air we breathe, the water we drink, the food we eat.

The germ can only prosper when the condition of the body affords it the scope to establish itself and develop. When there is a disease, the vital processes which the body performs enriches the blood, puts the stomach and organs of digestion and nutrition in a better condition than no work or tainted spot in which to breed. "Your 'Golden Medical Discovery' is a sick man's friend," written by Dr. Turner, D. S., of New York, a member of the Brotherhood of Teamsters.

Brotherhood of Teamsters.

After a long illness of three years my health gradually failed. I lost my appetite and became very weak. My doctor prescribed a medicine which helped me until I tried it. I found it did not help me. I took it into my veins and increased vitality until I could once again walk without assistance. Eight bottles affected a complete cure, and still do I recommend it.

Dr. Turner's "Golden Medical Discovery" costs one or two dollars will regulate and cleanse and invigorate a bad Stomach, torpid Liver, & sluggish Bowels.

My Breath.

Shortness of Breath Is One of the Commonest Signs of Heart Disease.

Notwithstanding what many physicians say, heart disease can be cured. Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure has permanently restored to health many thousands who had found no relief in medical, pathological, or homoeopathic of regular practicing physicians. It has proved unique in the history of medicine, by being so uniformly successful in curing those diseases.

Nearly always, one of the first signs of trouble is shortness of breath. Whether it comes as a result of walking or running, of over-exercising, or if the heart is unable to meet the extra demand upon its pumping power—there is something wrong with it.

The very best thing you can do is to take Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure. It will go to the foundation of the trouble, and make a permanent cure by strengthening and renewing the nerves.

"I have had a great remedy. For a number of years I have suffered from a constant breaking, smothering spells, and pains in my left side. For months at a time I have been compelled to sit up at night, and if I lay flat on my back would nearly suffocate. I have used Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure, which I did not expect to do any good. I took it at once, and after taking several bottles of the Heart Cure the pains in my arm are gone, and I am now entirely well. All those dreadful spells have disappeared."—Mrs. C. G. past. —F. P. LIAKE, Middletown, O.

The first bottle does not help you, but the second does.

morning and was informed that one or two hours were due for office rent. He laid down his pen and remarked: "Well, I must pay taxes and other expenses, but I need not pay rent. If it pays another man to erect a building and rent it to me, then it will pay me. Now, turning to his right hand man, "make arrangements for new offices. I don't want to hear anything more about it for a year." And so the offices were built.

How It Was Pronounced.

Who was it who declared that a German in one of the universities of English pronunciation said that we were "deutschland" and read it "gutta percha"? He was not driven to such desperation as one of his countrymen who gave up the study of the language on being told that the "Mikado" was pronounced "a decided success."—Chicago News.

"Why, sir, she's married; been married for twenty years!"

Lighting London in 1715.

The question of the lighting of London was settled in simple fashion in 1715. The common council "repealed, annulled and made void all the former acts concerning the lighting of London, as also all laws made for the same, and proceeded to enact that 'all housekeepers whose house, door or gateway fronts or lies next to any street, lane or public passage or place of the said city shall in every dark night—that is, every night between the second night after each full moon and the seventh night after each full moon' set out burning one candle with a wick that shall continue to burn from 6 o'clock at night till 11 o'clock of the same night on penalty of a shilling."

Good Horse, Good Rider.
Judging from the following story which Archibald J. Smythe tells in his biography of William Tell, it is evident that the practice of betting on horse races was among the greatest dislikes of the popular actor.

When any one asked him what horse he was going to back he would say:

"I'm going to back a little filly I've often backed before. I've never won anything yet; yet, strange to say, I've won a few."

"Oh, whatever horse is that?" might have been the inquiry.

"A little filly called Common Sense, ridden by Tommy Let It Alone," was the invariable answer.—London Telegraph.

More Double Track

Writing in the Raleigh Post of yesterday, Mr. J. C. Caddell foresees the time when trains running between Greensboro and Charlotte will pass through the ninety-nine-mile lease of the North Carolina Railroad by the Southern will call for four tracks instead of one. So, indeed, it will; and this reminds us of the agreeable time in the Washington corrasance of Tuesday of yesterday that a force of hands will-to-morrow begin grading the double track between Greensboro and High Point. The question is, whether the Southern Railway contrives to handle so many trains, passenger, freight, on a single track, between Greensboro and Charlotte, with so few sidings and turn-backs as to cause difficulties to the trains and clear headway. The Southern is a great system, the most effective developer of the South, and it has not undertaken its double-tracking policy too early. Think of the volume of its traffic fifty, even twenty-five years from now.—Charlotte Observer.

AN AWFUL SKIN DISEASE

Sores Covered Neck and Cheeks—Itched Day and Night—Nothing Did Me Any Good—Was Growing Worse.

CURED BY CUTICURA AT COST OF $4.50

Miss Nellie Vander Wile, of Lakeview, N.Y., writing April 15, 1905, to do with you would publish this letter in the newspapers, so that others suffering from this awful disease may be helped.

I have met six and been helped and cured by Cuticura with an awful skin disease, sores covering my ears, neck, and cheeks. Soals would form and they would itch all day and all night. Then they would break open and bleed and matter run out. I had tried many different remedies, but none of them did me any good. Finally I found Cuticura and applied the Cuticura Remedies. The first application helped me, and when I had used two cans of Cuticura Skin Soal, three bottles of Cuticura Remedy, and three bottles of Cuticura Resolvent, I was completely cured."
